Dear Nathan,

Per your request, I've attached a copy of your certification status which details the 31 areas in which you hold ASE certification. For future reference, you can print out a copy of your certification status report directly from your myASE account on the ASE website.

To answer your second question, there are only 240 individuals in our database with 31 or more ASE certifications, which places you in a fairly exclusive group. There are currently more than 300,000 ASE certified technicians on our records, which makes you among the top 1% in terms of number of certifications held.

Best regards,

Tony Molla
